

Applying narrative approaches to working with adults who have been subjected to childhood sexual abuse

Respond SA is pleased to offer a free, two day workshop that will include:

- Externalising and mapping the effects of childhood sexual abuse
- Naming and mapping resistance to the effects of childhood sexual abuse
- Deconstructing the dominant social beliefs that effect people subjected to childhood sexual abuse
- Dominant and alternative stories.

These workshops are suitable for anyone working in health and community services who would like to extend their skills in using narrative ideas with clients who have experienced childhood sexual abuse. Participants need to have completed a foundation knowledge workshop about childhood sexual abuse with either Respond SA or with Women's Health Statewide. A basic knowledge of narrative practices is recommended and pre workshop reading will be provided.
