

Young People and Public Spaces

Calling All Public Space Workers...

In February 2008, the Youth Affairs Council of South Australia will be running free workshops designed to add to the skills of public space and security workers , by providing training to effectively respond to young people in public spaces.

The training will cover the following topics:

- Understanding Young People (including adolescent development)
- Understanding Aggression (re-active and pro-active)
- Preventing Conflict (TRUCE model)
- Practical exercises and role-play sessions

By sharing your experiences with other public space workers from a range of sectors, you can increase your expertise in successfully engaging with young people. So, if you work in public space, and want to make your job easier, YACSA can help!

For dates and locations of training, or for more information, please contact:
