

Addressing Violence Alliance

IT'S TIME: Creating a future free from violence - men's responsibilities

Friday
22 August
2008

Preliminary Notice

The Addressing Violence Alliance (AVA) is a collaborative partnership between a number of lead agencies in the community services, health and criminal justice sectors. AVA is committed to increasing the capacity of the South Australian workforce in responding to and preventing violence.

In an industry where the majority of the workforce is women, this forum aims to encourage men to have a voice and become involved in "creating a future free from violence".

The inaugural forum is for men and women to come together to challenge cultural values that support violence, and to develop workforce capacity to respond.

Speakers include:

Dallas Colley

Tony Fletcher

Brooke Friedman

Rob Hall

John Hartley

Alan Jenkins

Sharon Lockwood

Anne-Marie Martin

Damien McInerney

Professor Bob Pease

Bo Rankine

Jacqueline Riviere

Kathryn Stone

Major Sumner

David Tully

Who should attend?

People working with, or wanting to work with, issues of violence and abuse, including health and community service workers, policy makers and educators.

Where

Relationships Australia (SA)
49a Orsmond Street, Hindmarsh

When

Friday 22 August 9am – 5pm (8.45am registration)

Cost

$77 including GST

Lunch, morning and afternoon tea provided.

Full program available in coming weeks

For registration
queries contact Gina Martino
tel 8245 8100

Places are limited

For further information
contact:
Pauleen Fennel
tel 8245 8100
or Lucy Cirocco
tel 8300 5348

Conference
organisers will aim
for a gender balance

Women's Health Statewide

Government
of South Australia

SA Health

Northern Violence Intervention Program

Relationships Australia
SOUTH AUSTRALIA

